MAP BOOK USAGE

This map book is a complete map of all county roads and city streets in Dallas County. It features an alphabetized index for county and city roads, page settings on each map, and a map index to make it helpful and time saving.

REFERENCE INDEX

In order to locate a specific road, you can look for the road name in either the County Road Index or the City Street Index. The page the road is located on is listed beside the road name. Using the alphabetized index is the easiest way to locate roads. If you do not know the name of a road you are trying to find, but know the general area where it might be located, you can use the Map Index to locate a specific area within Dallas County. The Map Index is a map of the entire county showing page numbers where you will be able to locate roads and streets for that particular part of the county.

DALLAS COUNTY ADDRESSING SYSTEM

A new house numbering and road naming method has been adopted in Dallas County since the implementation of an E9-1-1 system. The addressing system is based on a road measurement which includes addresses for all structures, driveways, intersections of other roads, intersections with county lines and city limits, as well as address numbers for endings of roads. The scale used for the addressing system was 5.28 feet per address. At this scale, a number of 100 refers to 1 tenth of a mile, a number of 200 refers to 2 tenths of a mile, and a number of 1000 refers to one mile. The intersection numbers of roads were placed on the map to aid emergency responders in the location of roads and actually shows where a road begins and ends. The address numbers found on a map locate intersections and reference how long the road is. For instance, numbers at the end of a road will show the distance or length of that particular road and the numbers along the road show how far down the road an intersecting road is located.
